

A Lot of Sweets

Sarah Little

3

ARABIA READERS

SAMPLE NOT FOR SALE

A Lot of Sweets

by Sarah Little

Illustrated by Danillo Souza

Activities by Abigail Steel

Listen to the story.

<http://arabiareaders.com/a-lot-of-sweets/>

It was Eid Al Fitr, and Hamad and Haya were in the UAE. In the morning, they went to the mosque. The children took their Eid money and bought some sweets.

At home, Haya helped Grandmother in the kitchen.
Haya was happy. She liked cooking with Grandmother.
She learned lots of new things.
Today, they made khameer for the Eid feast.

Amal came to the kitchen.

“Mmm...” she said. “Can we eat the khameer now?”

“No,” said Grandmother. “But you can eat one or two of your Eid sweets.”

“Yay!” said the girls. They ran to the living room.

Amal ate her sweets slowly, but Haya ate hers quickly.

“Don’t eat them all, Haya,” said Amal.

But Haya smiled and ate all her sweets.

Soon, the boys came into the living room.

“Where are your sweets, Haya?” asked Ali.

Haya smiled. They were all in her stomach!
The children were very happy. They liked Eid Al Fitr.
Grandmother walked into the living room.
“Don’t eat all of your sweets now,” she said.
Ali looked at Haya.
“Ssh!” Haya said.